

Ancient India's Myths and Stories

Directions: You are going to create a comic strip flip book for an Indian myth or story. To do this, follow the steps listed.

1. Using the link below, pick a myth and read it.

<http://www.indolink.com/kidz/mythology.html>

2. Then, use the graphic organizer provided to break down the story by summarizing it for each section (beginning, rising action, climax, falling action and conclusion).
3. After you have broken the story down, rewrite it in your own words in captions the way you would see on a comic strip. You will have two pages for each section of the story (2 for beginning, 2 for rising action, 2 for climax, 2 for falling action, 2 for the resolution.) You should have 2-3 sentences per page. You should have one colored picture per page.
4. For the title page, you will draw a picture and use the tissue paper to create a mosaic type picture on the cover.
5. For the last page- you should write "The End" and draw a funny picture related to your myth.
6. See my example to understand the directions above.
